
PROPOSITION K

The voters declare that the proliferation of advertising in the public right-of-way contributes to urban blight and visual clutter, as well as the commercialization of public spaces within the City. It is the policy of the voters of San Francisco as follows:

1. There shall be no increase in the number of general advertising signs on street furniture on the public right-of-way, including, but not limited to, transit shelters, kiosks, benches and newspaper racks, over the number authorized by City law and City contracts as of July 1, 2007.
2. There shall be no increase in the number of general advertising signs visible to the public on the exterior of City-owned buildings over the number in place as of December 1, 2007.
